

UF in Morocco & Senegal

COMPARATIVE MUSLIM SOCIETIES

Summer A: May 6 - June 6, 2019

COLLEGE INFORMATION

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences

Center for African Studies/Center for Global Islamic Studies

PROGRAM

Although they share a religion and a number of universal practices, Muslim societies are also shaped by diverse local socio-cultural contexts and can thus differ from each other in illuminating ways. In this hands-on program you will have the opportunity to explore two contemporary Muslim countries: Morocco north of the Sahara desert, and Senegal to its south. The program of study is organized around a set of interdisciplinary themes, and draws from scholarship in anthropology, religious studies, linguistics, and popular culture. This broad perspective is designed to help you understand the Muslim world in a more nuanced way, and the activities and field visits you engage in during the course of the program will give you firsthand experience with cultural and religious practices that you can evaluate against what you learn in the classroom. You will come away from this program with a rich understanding of what these Muslim societies share and how they differ from each other.
