

SANTA CLARA UNIVERSITY &
THE US-CHINA CATHOLIC ASSOCIATION

Call for Papers:
China, Christianity, & the Dialogue of Civilizations

The US-China Catholic Association is currently accepting paper and session proposals for its conference on “China, Christianity, and the Dialogue of Civilizations,” to take place August 6-8, 2021 on the campus of Santa Clara University.

The theme of this conference is the engagement between Christianity and Chinese civilization. Panels may examine this theme in light of recent challenges, the larger horizon of shared values, and/or pursuit of the common good.

A note about this particular conference model: Attendees will include both scholars and people involved in various faith communities. The purpose of these panels is to share the insights of the academic community and the perspectives of its various disciplines with the larger, informed public.

Current panels (panel sessions already accepted):

- Building Bridges Between China and the West: Case Studies
- The Sino-Vatican Accord in Historical and Comparative Perspective
- Sinicization of Religion: Meaning and Application
- China and Environmental Stewardship: The Contribution of the Churches
- Urbanization and Its Far-Reaching Implications
- The Coronavirus, The Global Community, and the Church
- Sino-Christian Theology: Chinese Intellectuals Engage Christian Tradition
- Chinese Christian Spirituality
- Civic Controversy in Hong Kong and Christian Community
- Young People and Contemporary Society
- Women and Faith Communities in China Today

See the conference website for more information on these sessions and the conference itself:

<https://www.uscatholicchina.org/conference-2021-program>

Interested participants are invited to submit to one of the above panels or to propose an additional panel.

→ Submitting to One of the Above Panels Accepted on rolling basis starting Dec. 1, 2020

Send presentation title and 150-word abstract, along with your name, institutional affiliation, and title to Mr. Xin Chen at USCCA.Projects@gmail.com

→ Proposing an Additional Panel Deadline: Dec. 1, 2020

Send panel theme, 100-word abstract, along with your name, institutional affiliation, and title to Mr. Xin Chen at USCCA.Projects@gmail.com
(Greater consideration given if you also suggest moderator and possible panelists.)

Onsite/Video-based Presentations: We are currently planning an onsite event, but we will accommodate speakers who would like to present via video conferencing media on a case-by-case basis.

Subsidies for Presenters: Limited subsidies for presenters who travel to the conference are available.