

Experience India The Indian Field Seminar (IM853)

January 2015

Applications will be accepted beginning
April 2, 2014 7:00 AM

The seminar will run from early
January 2015, returning by January 17th (11-13 nights total) and is open to MBA and MPH students.

The India Field Seminar is designed for MBA and MPH students who seek to understand the rapidly changing global forces of the health sector as they intersect with the dynamics of an emerging country through experiential learning in India.

Following three Saturday meetings in Boston this fall, students will travel to India for approximately 12 days in early January 2015, visiting Delhi, Mumbai, and Bangalore. The field seminar will include visits to government agencies, hospitals, pharmaceutical companies, health sector start-ups, health centers, and research laboratories. Issues of particular interest include technology and bio-pharma development, effective service delivery with limited resources, the role of entrepreneurial initiative in complex environments, and the potential to leapfrog development in underdeveloped settings.

This seminar is available as a Spring SMG elective and is open to MBA and MPH students.

Course Fees:

Program Fee: $4,000*

Estimated airfare to and from India: $1,400

Estimated meals and incidentals: $680

*Cost of regular BU tuition is not included in the program fee. Program Fee Includes: 11-13 nights lodging - double occupancy, all breakfasts, some lunches and dinners, local transportation between each city, and any course materials.

 Round-trip to India.

 Airfare, meals, and incidental costs are estimates based on past years.

If you have further questions on the seminar, please contact the course professor, Ned Rimer, at nedrimer@bu.edu. For registration questions, please contact Betsy Dick in the GPO at ecdick@bu.edu.

Online Application opens April 2nd at 7:00 AM at: <http://smgworld.bu.edu/gpo/forms>
Click on "India Field Seminar Application" under "Forms" in right column.