
RESOURCE

Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) Guidance

The Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) sets out the rights and responsibilities associated with student education records. The University's FERPA Policy outlines students' rights and the University's practices concerning the disclosure of education records.

FERPA Compliance at Boston University

- DON'T disclose information concerning a student's education record to anyone outside of the University unless you have confirmed that FERPA permits the disclosure.
- DO review the University's FERPA Policy and related materials, including helpful FAQs.
- DO treat all student records as Confidential data under the University's Data Protection Standards.

END OF POLICY TEXT

Additional Resources Regarding This Policy

Related Policies

- University's FERPA Policy
- University's Data Protection Standards

Boston University Offices

- Office of the University Registrar
The Registrar is the Responsible Office for the FERPA Policy and can answer questions about education records and FERPA.
- Information Security
Information Security can help you keep data secure, reliable, and accessible.